Hospitality and Treachery in Western Literature

Expanded Index

Page numbers in italics indicate figures. Literary characters are parenthetically identified by the author and title of the relevant work, though Proust's characters are tagged simply as (Proust) and identifications are skipped when they are otherwise obvious, as with Don Juan, tagged (Byron) alone. Biblical characters are tagged (biblical).

Abel (biblical), 89, 163

Abraham (biblical): God's appearance to, 64; hospitality of, 2, 11, 43–49, 61, 335, 344nn2–3, 345n10; Rembrandt's depictions of, 46, 46–49, 48, 345n9; rewarded for hospitality, 50–51; willingness to sacrifice Isaac, 52, 54

Note: here and throughout the index I've changed "char" to author and title of the work in which the char appears. But for Proust's and Dante's characters I use only (Proust) or (Dante), and I skip this ID when the context makes it clear (as with Don Juan, where Don Juan is hardly needed). Kindly check to make sure that all characters are identified where needed.
